

Herald's

Ball Players At Washington
Park Ought To Wear Goggles and Carry Sun Shades.

Sporting

Orozco May Arrive in Juarez
In Time To See the Herrick-
Homer Fight, Eh Huerta?

Page

(EDITED BY TIMOTHY TURNER)

ARMY LEADS CITY LEAGUE BATTING

Battling averages for the City league clubs have been compiled by C. Culpepper, the official scorer of the league, and show the 22d Infantry team far in the lead. However, the army nine has had some advantage since it only has continued 14 players, while the Millers have been using 17 players, the Bakers 22 and the Sheltons 19. From now on only 13 players are allowed each team.

The averages are for May and April, including all play since the opening of the season. Scorer Culpepper has taken great care to avoid errors, but warns that some mistakes may have been made in the extensive tables. The averages are as follows:

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	SR.	SH.	BB.	HR.	B.A.
22d Infantry	2	252	78	82	23	12	18	4	1
Millers	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Bakers	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Sheltons	6	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	SR.	SH.	BB.	HR.	B.A.
22d Infantry	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Fisher, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Lamb, R.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Kemp, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Terrill, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
W. Grady, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
J. Grady, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Adams, C.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Samuelson, P.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Ericksen, C.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Muehlberger, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Pickrent, H.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Farrell, W.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Gardner, Th.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0
Oppelt, P.	4	15	8	8	2	0	1	0	0

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	SR.	SH.	BB.	HR.	B.A.
Millers	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Carey, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Barker, H.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Corning, C.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Lundquist, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
W. Grady, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Hill, W.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Hoover, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
H. Grady, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Pomero, C.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Fasset, C.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Cheseweth, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Lynch, P.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Emphill, Th.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Hammond, P.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Hoover, C.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1
Cargo, P.	7	250	59	65	18	5	10	2	1

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	SR.	SH.	BB.	HR.	B.A.
Bakers	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Hughes, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Yimble, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Walker, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Boering, C.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Reynolds, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
McIntire, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Thompson, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Wingwall, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Chiller, C.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Perkins, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Armstrong, P. Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Taylor, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Hoffner, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
W. Grady, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Brennan, P.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Steth, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Sims, P.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Chent, Th.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Darnell, P.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Wright, P.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Stewart, P.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0
Johnson, P.	22	213	4	0	0	0	0	0	0

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	SR.	SH.	BB.	HR.	B.A.
Sheltons	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Mangum, C.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Lopez, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Edwards, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
St. Mesa, C.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Corrigan, C.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Levy, P.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
F. Mesa, P.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Peters, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
A. Aquino, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Levy, P.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Cano, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
St. Mesa, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Caro, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Pederson, P.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Howland, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Trujillo, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Adair, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1
Urcan, Th.	19	167	18	29	9	8	8	1	1

SCOOP
THE CUB REPORTER

Lesson No. 3. Scoop is Now Wise to the "Ump's" End of it.

Copyright, 1912, The International Syn

MOST VALUABLE
WHITE SOX MAN

INDIANAPOLIS
CHANGES HANDS

Shakeup in the Club and Reorganization of the Association.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—Rumors current for some time have developed in truth by the shakeup in the management of Indianapolis baseball club. Not only is a new manager appointed, but the reorganization of the Indianapolis Athletic Association is under way.

James Burke gives up the managerial reins which he has held since the opening of the 1911 season, and is succeeded by Charles O'Leary, late of the Detroit Tigers, while W. H. Watkins, who has presided over the destinies of the local club for almost a score of years and who is one of the best known characters in the great national pastime, steps down from the presidency, being succeeded by Sol Meyer, the club treasurer, who for some time has held a controlling interest in the club stock.

The shakeup while resulting from resignations virtually amounts to a split, brought about by unsatisfactory results from the playing field. Meyer is said to have demanded Burke's resignation and Watkins, rather than consent to this, stepped down and out himself.

Manager Burke's resignation was received by treasurer Meyer and that of president Watkins followed a few minutes later. Mr. Meyer, who is said to control 30 percent of the stock, immediately named O'Leary as manager, and took up the presidency. This of course he will continue to hold and direct the affairs of the club.

O'Leary is to have entire charge of the playing end of the game, being invested with the same authority formerly held by manager Burke. The former Tiger came to Indianapolis when the first effort was made this year to strengthen the team after the poor showing at the start. He had been a member of the Detroit team since 1904, and for the last six weeks has played regularly in the short field for the Indians. He is considered one of the smartest ball players in the game, and it is believed, has the qualifications of a good manager.

He was selected, according to president Meyer, over one or two other members of the team thought to be equally capable, because he stands on neutral ground, having neither marked friends nor enemies, such as adhere to players who have been long in the game in Indianapolis.

According to Mr. Meyer, O'Leary receives the managerial reins temporarily, and in case he makes good he is to be the permanent manager.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

INDIANAPOLIS
CHANGES HANDS

Shakeup in the Club and Reorganization of the Association.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—Rumors current for some time have developed in truth by the shakeup in the management of Indianapolis baseball club. Not only is a new manager appointed, but the reorganization of the Indianapolis Athletic Association is under way.

James Burke gives up the managerial reins which he has held since the opening of the 1911 season, and is succeeded by Charles O'Leary, late of the Detroit Tigers, while W. H. Watkins, who has presided over the destinies of the local club for almost a score of years and who is one of the best known characters in the great national pastime, steps down from the presidency, being succeeded by Sol Meyer, the club treasurer, who for some time has held a controlling interest in the club stock.

The shakeup while resulting from resignations virtually amounts to a split, brought about by unsatisfactory results from the playing field. Meyer is said to have demanded Burke's resignation and Watkins, rather than consent to this, stepped down and out himself.

Manager Burke's resignation was received by treasurer Meyer and that of president Watkins followed a few minutes later. Mr. Meyer, who is said to control 30 percent of the stock, immediately named O'Leary as manager, and took up the presidency. This of course he will continue to hold and direct the affairs of the club.

O'Leary is to have entire charge of the playing end of the game, being invested with the same authority formerly held by manager Burke. The former Tiger came to Indianapolis when the first effort was made this year to strengthen the team after the poor showing at the start. He had been a member of the Detroit team since 1904, and for the last six weeks has played regularly in the short field for the Indians. He is considered one of the smartest ball players in the game, and it is believed, has the qualifications of a good manager.

He was selected, according to president Meyer, over one or two other members of the team thought to be equally capable, because he stands on neutral ground, having neither marked friends nor enemies, such as adhere to players who have been long in the game in Indianapolis.

According to Mr. Meyer, O'Leary receives the managerial reins temporarily, and in case he makes good he is to be the permanent manager.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

COBB AND FAN HE HIT,
STARTING BALL WAR

INDIANAPOLIS
CHANGES HANDS

Shakeup in the Club and Reorganization of the Association.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—Rumors current for some time have developed in truth by the shakeup in the management of Indianapolis baseball club. Not only is a new manager appointed, but the reorganization of the Indianapolis Athletic Association is under way.

James Burke gives up the managerial reins which he has held since the opening of the 1911 season, and is succeeded by Charles O'Leary, late of the Detroit Tigers, while W. H. Watkins, who has presided over the destinies of the local club for almost a score of years and who is one of the best known characters in the great national pastime, steps down from the presidency, being succeeded by Sol Meyer, the club treasurer, who for some time has held a controlling interest in the club stock.

The shakeup while resulting from resignations virtually amounts to a split, brought about by unsatisfactory results from the playing field. Meyer is said to have demanded Burke's resignation and Watkins, rather than consent to this, stepped down and out himself.

Manager Burke's resignation was received by treasurer Meyer and that of president Watkins followed a few minutes later. Mr. Meyer, who is said to control 30 percent of the stock, immediately named O'Leary as manager, and took up the presidency. This of course he will continue to hold and direct the affairs of the club.

O'Leary is to have entire charge of the playing end of the game, being invested with the same authority formerly held by manager Burke. The former Tiger came to Indianapolis when the first effort was made this year to strengthen the team after the poor showing at the start. He had been a member of the Detroit team since 1904, and for the last six weeks has played regularly in the short field for the Indians. He is considered one of the smartest ball players in the game, and it is believed, has the qualifications of a good manager.

He was selected, according to president Meyer, over one or two other members of the team thought to be equally capable, because he stands on neutral ground, having neither marked friends nor enemies, such as adhere to players who have been long in the game in Indianapolis.

According to Mr. Meyer, O'Leary receives the managerial reins temporarily, and in case he makes good he is to be the permanent manager.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

He was called in consultation and agreed to assume the responsibilities of management only when he was assured that a change of the team, with the right to buy and trade players, the club was in a position to make.

SPITBALL IS NOT POPULAR IN TEXAS

No Apostles of the Moist Pill Are Found in the Texas League.

Houston, Texas, May 23.—Spitball pitchers come and go in droves, in herds, in schools, or in whatever way may wish to term it. This year they have been going as far as the Texas league is concerned. When Everett Hornsby was taken from Houston by Kansas City the league was left without a real spitball artist. Peaster, of Beaumont, thinks that he is an artist with the damp filth, but he falls far short of the mark. Helm has a fair spitter, but nothing like the one that Hornsby used to wail into position to get the good batters out of the park.

Three years ago the Texas league was filled with filingers who used to depend largely upon the spitball. In 1910 Reeves, McKay, of Fort Worth, one of the most successful pitchers of that campaign, used the spitball more than any other. Bill Lattimore was using it, too, and so was Burk. Since then there has been no new crop to take their places, much to the genuine enjoyment of the umpires. There are some umpires who are not in favor of who with the directors would pass a law barring spitball pitchers from the diamond.

"I do not mind working with a pitcher who has a real spitter," remarked Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time. Ed Walsh, of the White Sox, is one of the best in the business in this time.

</